

MAY NEED 'BIG STICK' IN CURRENCY FIGHT

Unless President Insists, the Prospects Are for Delay in Passage of Measure.

The demand of Congressman Henry for a reopening of the money trust investigation, and a consequent delay in the enactment of currency legislation further complicated the currency reform issue at the Capitol today.

There is even a prospect that unless President Wilson waves the "big stick," the differences among the Democrats may assume such proportions that it will be impossible to push through a currency bill at this session. The Democrats are admittedly a growing feeling among Democratic members that it may be hazardous for the party to rush into currency legislation on the heels of tariff revision.

Remember what happened to us when the Cleveland administration became mixed up on the monetary issue," is the way the Democrats put it.

Opposition Seems Certain.

Mr. Henry's statement, issued yesterday, makes it fairly certain that the Glass currency bill cannot be put through the caucus as a strict party measure. The members of the Banking and Currency Committee are not united in their current views. The rank and file seem to take little interest in the subject, and it is declared there is no popular demand for immediate action as there was in the case of the tariff.

Congressman Henry said today that if introducing his resolution granting Congressional powers over national banks, which carries with it the prospective reopening of the money trust inquiry, he was in line with the recommendations of the Pujo committee.

The Pujo committee in its "preliminary" report cited the fact that it was impossible to get from the Comptroller of the Currency any information regarding the affairs of national banks, nor could Congress directly call upon the banks for such information.

May Be Forced Over.

"For these reasons and because of the suspension of public hearings during the Presidential campaign, and on account of the large number of important witnesses whom it was impossible to examine within the brief time remaining of the term of the present Congress, your committee has been unable to complete its investigations and has deemed it best to proceed with the resolution, accompanied by the urgent recommendation that the incoming Congress continue the inquiry into the important subjects set forth in the resolutions."

The introduction of Mr. Henry's resolution is but an incident in the growing feeling in Capitol Hill that the ways of the currency bill will be rocky, and that the entire measure may be forced over until the regular session unless President Wilson insists, and positively, upon immediate action. Even if a currency bill is put through the House, it is doubtful that it will pass the Senate because of the long discussion which will result as soon as the subject is broached in the upper chamber.

Kaiser Wilhelm Has Anniversary as Ruler

BERLIN, June 14.—Pope Pius X was the first today to congratulate Kaiser Wilhelm II on his twenty-fifth anniversary as ruler of the German Empire.

Cardinal Kopp and Monsignor Prince Groy, a prelate of the Pontiff's household, brought the congratulations of the Vatican to the palace.

Tomorrow the Kaiser will round out his twenty-fifth year as ruler of the united Germans, and he will have the great pleasure of witnessing the fulfillment of his often-expressed wish, to complete a quarter century reign without war. This is a record which no other European monarch has achieved. A country-wide jubilee has been arranged to commemorate the event.

From every quarter of the world the Kaiser today was deluged with telegrams of congratulation, including one from President Wilson.

States, Andrew Carnegie, the American advocate of world peace, has engaged a room in a Berlin hotel, announcing that he would congratulate the Emperor in person.

Curtis, member of the board of trustees of the Chevy Chase Association, and Superintendent Murphy of the new substation. Mr. Carson, Freedmen's Hospital, contributed to an entertainment program.

The man is said to have called at several places in the north-west section of the city, and by representing himself as an employee of the District, collected small sums of money.

President Plays Golf; Fails to See Callahan

President Wilson took a chance on getting "in bad" with the ball fans today when James John Callahan, manager of the Chicago White Sox, called at the White House to invite the President to attend the ball game this afternoon and learned that the Executive was out golfing. Secretary Tumulty, who is a ball fan and whose forebears came from the same general direction as the early Callahans, squared things, however, and Cal left smiling.

The President was out early today on the links of the Columbia Country Club, going over the course with Dr. Grayson, the White House physician. He was out to the ball game this afternoon, but his morning of golf may prevent his attendance.

SEES IRREGULARITY IN SUGAR DOCUMENT

Senate Clerk Tells the Lobby Committee Original Order Was Tarnished With.

Favorable to Sugar Cause.

But the order which is printed in "Sugar at a Glance," purporting to be signed by the then secretary of the Senate, is much more favorable to the beet sugar cause. It reads:

"Ordered that the charts and data prepared by Truman G. Palmer, concerning the sugar industry, the increased yield of other crops when grown in rotation with sugar beets, and the rise in price of farm and food products be printed as a document."

It was under this order, by some sort of strange stretching of the original order of the Senate, that an attractive document in color, having a cut of Henry T. Oxnard's farm and other illustrations, was turned out.

Mr. Wold did not specifically charge anybody with getting a lot of matter into print which the Senate never intended should be printed. But his testimony left no doubt this had been done. Just how far Senator Lodge's office was responsible was not brought out, nor was it made clear just where the head of the beet sugar lobby got in his work.

Mr. Wold said he sent to the printer the title page, a letter by Mr. Palmer, an official order for printing, and the charts on the Senate walls prepared by Mr. Palmer and used by Senator Lodge to illustrate a speech.

"I don't think I sent this order," said he, alluding to the order in the document, "Sugar at a Glance," as already mentioned. "I don't remember any photograph."

He added that he did not send to the printing office Senator Lodge's speech, and much of the printed matter which is in the beet sugar document.

Proofs To Lodge's Office.

Mr. Wold said that in accordance with custom, when the proofs came back from the Government Printing Office, he took them to Senator Lodge's office. It is usual to submit proofs of any document to the Senator securing the order to print. A month after, Wold asked for the document in Senator Lodge's office.

He was told, he said, "they were still working on it." He took the matter up again in the fall, after he got back, when he made a request from Harry Devendorf, secretary to Vice President Sherman, for a copy of document 880. He learned from the Government Printing Office it was not finished.

"I was informed at the Government Printing Office they had taken it up with some gentleman who was coming down there."

Calls Proceedings "Irregular."

Questioned about it at length by Senator Walsh, he said the proceedings connected with this document were "irregular" and he declared that when the document was finally printed he called up the Government Printing Office and said it was "funny" a Senate document should be printed without approval of some one in the office of the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Palmer has already testified that he furnished the stones on which the document was printed.

He described the routine of the office of the Secretary of the Senate, said he could not think at first any one would have the audacity to do that, but later he, with another clerk, B. C. Ryder, looked over the original papers on file and discovered the memorandum of the order obtained by Senator Lodge.

Avers He Was Ignored.

"And you conclude that no such order of date of August 1, 1912, as appears in 'Sugar at a Glance,' was ever made," asked Senator Walsh.

"That's my opinion," said Wold. "That's my opinion." The original copy, with the copy of the order, had come back and had gone to Senator Lodge's office. Ordinarily, Wold said, he would keep the copy, but he couldn't go to a Senator and demand it.

He added that he had been ignored in the printing of the document, and so kept still. He denied he had ever told Truman G. Palmer that he, Wold, had made out the order purporting to be signed by Bennett.

Carroll First Witness.

Mr. Wold is one of a number of Senate clerks and employees of the Government Printing Office who will be called in connection with the printing of "Sugar at a Glance." It is apparent that somehow or other Mr. Palmer succeeded in getting into the document about such matter as he deemed valuable to the beet sugar interests.

John H. Carroll, of St. Louis, an attorney for the Hill roads, and a familiar figure about Washington, was the first witness. Carroll denied he was here to influence legislation. He said he had filed a brief on creosote oil for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Mr. Carroll escaped without being much pressed.

After Mr. Wold, F. R. Hathaway, secretary of the Michigan Sugar Company, who was on the stand yesterday, again took the stand.

JAPAN AGREES TO TREATY EXTENSION

Secretary Bryan Also Believes That English Pact Will Be Renewed.

As an indication that the negotiations between the United States and Japan over the California land legislation are progressing favorably, Secretary of State Bryan today announced that Japan had agreed to a five-year extension of the general arbitration treaty between the two countries, which expires August 27.

Secretary Bryan took occasion while discussing the Japanese treaty to declare emphatically his belief that not only the Japanese treaty, but the Great Britain treaty extension would be ratified by the Senate.

The British treaty renewal was brought before the Senate recently, but Senator Chamberlain and others objected so strenuously to the provisions affecting the question of Panama canal tolls that the treaty was withdrawn from the Senate and no further steps were taken to obtain Senate ratification.

Since that time it has been declared that there was growing opposition in the Senate to ratification, and there was no danger that the treaty would be held up indefinitely, unless the canal toll provisions were changed.

Secretary Bryan states that he has talked with a number of Senators about the British treaty and he says he has the slightest doubt that the Senate will act favorably when the matter is again brought before it.

The announcement of Japan's willingness to agree to an extension of the general arbitration was communicated to Secretary Bryan by Ambassador Chinda, who called at the State Department and was in conference with the Secretary for more than an hour.

Asked if this move on the part of Japan indicated a greater desire than had been shown by that government to bring about, by means of diplomacy, a settlement of the California situation, Secretary Bryan said it was an evidence of a friendly spirit that was distinctly pleasing to this government.

The Secretary said that progress had been made in the preparation of the reply to the last Japanese note, and that it was expected the note would be completed and ready for communication to Japan early next week. First, however, the reply will be submitted to the President and the Cabinet at the meeting Tuesday morning.

Capitol Notes

Segregation Bill Referred.

The Howard bill for the segregation of the white and colored passengers on Washington street cars has been referred to the House District Committee. The bill is similar in its provisions to the laws now in force in some cities.

Amends Sherman Law.

Senator La Follette has introduced in the Senate a sweeping measure for the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law. It is intended to cover all business contingencies that may arise. The provisions of the Sherman measure are made more explicit by appended definitions and a large number of amendments are offered.

Culebra Cut Is Problem.

Although the Panama canal work is nearing completion, the slides in the Culebra cut are still causing great damage, according to advices received by the Isthmian Canal Commission. The latest slide precipitated a large mass of earth and rock into the canal, covering all the tracks on the east side, choking the drainage ditch and covering a steam shovel. The Culebra slide in a fresh movement filled the cut to the sixty-seven foot level and brought in more material than the steam shovels excavated from it for more than a month.

Will Investigate Dry Dock.

One of the first questions to be considered by the new House Committee on Naval Affairs will be the condition of the Pearl harbor drydock, in Hawaii, for which an appropriation of $2,000,000 has been made by Congress, and upon which the bureau of yards and docks of the Navy Department is expected to report.

There are reports of a find of an underlying strata of lava and coral which might detract from the availability of the dock, and these reports are under investigation by the department. The naval committee will consider the question of continuing the work there or substituting a floating dock as soon as the department's report is received.

May Kill Court.

The fate of the Commerce Court, that tribunal long on trial as a useless appendage of the Government, will be decided on June 25, when its opponents in Democratic caucus will make a desperate effort to block further appropriations for future maintenance.

Consular Policy.

The Wilson Administration's policy as to the consular service will be announced within the next two or three days. It became known today, with announcement that Secretary of State Bryan and President Wilson have reached an agreement regarding the ap-

plification of the civil service to this branch of the Government.

No News Of Shake-up.

No news of the reported shake-up in the Mexican cabinet has reached the State Department through official channels. Secretary Bryan announced today. Recognition of the Huerta regime by the American Government is still far distant, Bryan indicated, because of the vacillating state of affairs in the southern republic.

Nation Will Pay.

Dr. George P. Sampson, of Winslow, Ariz., who took care of and treated Charles Walker, the blind Navajo who was run over by a train near Winslow, October 9, 1911, when his guide deserted him, will be paid by the Government for his services. Comptroller Downey decided today that the claim was a valid one, and ordered the payment of $367.

Bryan Host To Navajo.

Secretary of State Bryan today was as his guests at luncheon at the University Club today Edward J. Hale, of North Carolina, whose nomination as minister to Costa Rica has been sent to the Senate, and Senator Calvo, the minister to the United States from Costa Rica. The engagement was to permit the two diplomatic representatives to talk over subjects connected with their respective missions.

Senate May Probe Wreck.

Growing out of the New Haven wreck, Senator Vardaman of Mississippi will demand a Senate investigation into this disaster and the general question of how to lessen the toll of life on American railroads.

He said today that human life seemed to be regarded by the roads as "the cheapest commodity."

Approve Wilson's Nominee.

The Senate Civil Service Committee today ordered a favorable report on the nomination of Charles M. Calloway and Hermon C. Craven to be members of the Civil Service Commission. Both were recently appointed by the President.

Wilsons Not to Go To San Francisco

None of the members of President Wilson's family will go to San Francisco to be present at the opening of the New Jersey building at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

This announcement was given out at the White House today in response to newspaper articles declaring that members of the family intended to present on New Jersey day at the exposition.

TREASURY HOLDS UNCLAIMED $740

Sum Left Long Time, But Never Has Been Called for. Makes Lots of Bookkeeping.

Uncle Sam has $740, or its equivalent in gold and silver, that the old gentleman knows not what to do with.

Of this sum $610.13 is in the San Francisco mint and represents bullion left by followers of the Forty-Niners, who never came back to claim it. The balance is in the assay office at New York, in the form of 130.90 fine ounces of silver bullion left for exchange for fine bars, and never called for.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo asked Comptroller Downey today if this bullion or its equivalent might not be covered into the Treasury, to save the endless bookkeeping of carrying it in gold and silver. Comptroller Downey decided that unless the Secretary takes the bull by the horns and takes arbitrary action on his own initiative it cannot be done, as there is no authority in law.

In San Francisco E. J. Peters deposited $127.37 in gold bullion in 1854. Joseph Baker has to his credit $332.27 deposited in 1854, and J. H. Southern has $151.98. None of this has ever been called for. The silver bullion in the New York assay office was left in 1858 by Thomas P. Davis and never called for. At the time it was valued at a dollar an ounce. Now it is worth only 60 cents an ounce.
